

GAIN TALKS ON LABOR SUBJECTS

Says Ships Should Be Built in Government Yards.

Power of Union Label Is Greater Than Generally Known.

United Navy Yard Men Worth 210 Members of Congress.

The power of the union label and the standing by one another was the subject of the address delivered to delegates at last night's meeting of the Central Labor Union by George L. Cain, president of the League of Employees of Navy Yards, Arsenals and Naval Stations.

Mr. Cain is from Lynn, Mass., and is here in the interest of the work of the league. After pointing out the benefits of adhering strictly to the union label rule he took occasion to say that if organized labor would better its matter and the Australian ballot should be studied. He made a plea for the uniting of the employees in the several branches of the trade in the seventeen navy yards of the country, saying that if that were done it would be worth 210 members of Congress to organized labor. He spoke earnestly on the subject of building ships, saying that if good work was to be done the ships should be built in the navy yards owned and controlled by the Government.

He said he was opposed to the strike, which should never be called until every means for an adjustment of the trouble had been exhausted. The union should be fair with the employer and then the employer will be fair to the union. He urged that an effort be made to bring into the unions those who are unorganized.

"It is not fair nor just," said he, "that the unorganized mechanic should receive the benefit of our struggles for better conditions."

Delegate DeNedry, the organizer of the Lamplighters' Union, said that since the men were organized twenty-five of them had been discharged by the Lamplighting Company. He said he had called on the officials of the company and they told him that the men had not been dismissed because they had joined the union. At Mr. DeNedry's suggestion President Brinkman appointed DeNedry, Fennell and Plau a committee to investigate the matter and see what could be done toward securing the reinstatement of the men.

Delegate Fennell, of the legislative committee, said that at the meeting next Monday night he would make a report on the work of the committee. He just closed which would include the amount of labor legislation enacted during the session.

HUMANE SOCIETY TELLS OF FEBRUARY WORK

The executive committee of the Humane Society held its regular monthly meeting yesterday noon in the rooms of the society in the Warder building, and was unusually well attended. The reports of the work done during the month of February show that more than 2,000 animals were examined by the agents of the society and 188 cases of cruelty prosecuted in the Police Court.

Miss Loring, chairman of the fountain committee, reported that a drinking fountain for animals had been erected at O and Water streets since the last meeting, making twelve of these fountains furnished by the society and erected in the District during the past year, and 130 now in use.

Mrs. Alexander Sharp, Mrs. India Schooley, and Mrs. John Hall Fox were elected members of the society.

HEROISM OF POLICEMAN RECOGNIZED BY REWARD

Policeman J. S. Miller, of the Ninth street precinct, will not be required to pay a fine of $5, which had been imposed upon him by the Police Trial Board, for alleged failure to patrol his beat. On Saturday Policeman Miller endangered his life by stopping a runaway horse after the animal had dragged him half a block. Upon recommendation of Captain Daley, of the Ninth precinct, Major Sylvester struck the record of punishment from the police rolls.

NEBRASKA'S LAWS NOW PROTECT NATIONAL FLAG

In rendering the decision of the United States Supreme Court yesterday, Justice Harlan, in a case appealed from the Nebraska courts, attacking the constitutionality of a law of the State prohibiting the use of the national flag for advertising purposes, upheld the right of the State to protect the national emblem from indignities.

The Bishop of London Coming To Washington For St. Andrew's Meet

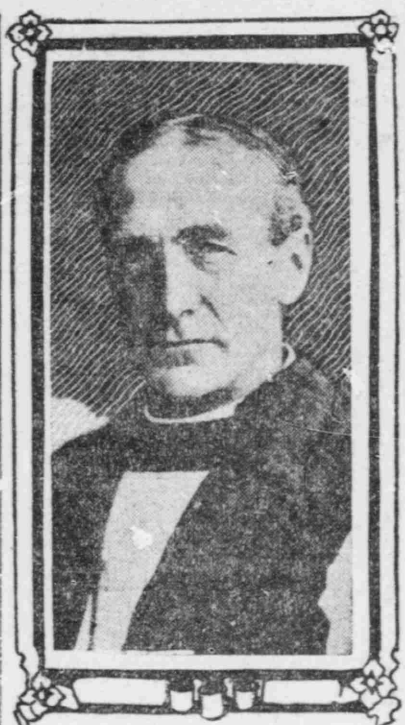

Will First Attend Episcopal Convention at Richmond.

The First Visit of His Lordship to the United States.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur Foley Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, will be one of the distinguished visitors that the fall will bring to Washington and the Episcopalians of this diocese are preparing to give him the same royal welcome his grace the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury received when he visited this country in 1901 and spent several days in Washington.

Bishop Ingram is visiting this country in response to an invitation from the general convention of the Episcopal Church, to be held in Richmond, Va., October 5, next, and will be in Washington during the great convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. It will be his first visit to this country, although he has always been deeply interested in American life and American ideals. The bishop has more or less socialistic views and often disguises himself as a workman and visits the poorer sections of London, trying to gain a first-hand knowledge of the evils and the sufferings of his fellow men.

Democratic in his taste and habits, Bishop Ingram gets over the vast territory of London by the means of a bicycle. As Bishop of Stephen he became familiar with the work in London and instituted many innovations that have stood the church in good stead. In the midst of his thousand cares and duties he has found time to write a number of interesting works on church subjects.

The lecture, which begins at 7:30 o'clock, will be illustrated with stereopticon views.

CITIZENS CRITICISE SLOW MAIL SERVICE

South Washington Claims Local Letters Are 12 Hours Late.

"I have found by experience that it takes from twelve to fourteen hours, or even longer, for a letter mailed in South Washington and addressed to the section in which it is mailed, to reach its destination," said John Quinn, at a meeting last night of the South Washington Citizens' Association, in the Episcopal Parish house, Ninth and D streets southwest. The occasion of the criticism of the postoffice people was due to the fact that the secretary of the association had on Sunday night sent out notices of the meeting and only five members had received their notices.

Mr. Quinn and Joseph Williams were appointed a committee to see the postal authorities and ask for better mail service.

President J. H. Johnston offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, thanking the press of Washington, and Commissioner Macfarland for the fight made to amend the smoke nuisance law so as to include railroad locomotives.

The committee on streets reported repairs commenced on a number of streets in South Washington.

A communication from the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture was received, offering to deliver an illustrated stereopticon lecture by bacteriologists on the question of impure milk. This matter will be taken up at a later meeting.

BROOKLAND CHURCH CALLS BINGHAMPTON PASTOR

The Rev. H. W. O. Millington, pastor of Lestershire Baptist church, New Binghamton, N. Y., has accepted a call to the Brookland Baptist Church. Mr. Millington will assume his new charge early next month. The church has been without a pastor since the resignation of the Rev. J. N. Lawless, who resigned to accept a call to a Memphis, Tenn., church.

White Girls Take Part In Colored Race Drama

Play a Nonsensical Production, Designed as Reply to "The Clansman"—Last Night's the First Performance.

Several young white girls of Washington took part last night in a presentation by colored persons of a ridiculous hodge-podge of a play, "A Production of Mixed Races," given at True Reformers' Hall. A white woman played the leading part, that of wife to a colored man, known as "Me Lord."

Mary Pitts, who was recently arrested in New York, charged with the attempted kidnapping of four young white girls, in connection with this same exhibition, is the writer, impresario and manager of "Mixed Races," which she built up as a reply to Dixon's "The Clansman."

Mrs. Pitts says that a huge fraction of her incoherent concoction was left in New York, and last night's affair corroborated her statement.

The star part was played by the curtain, which came down at the end of every eighteen words. The play was divided into three rounds and nine heats.

The first act was a parlor scene, set in a wilderness, and the participants were "Me Lord," a parlor maid and valet. "Me Lord" is discovered seated, brooding morally. Gives a gasp, rings bell on table. Enter maid L. U. E. Courtesies to "Me Lord." Can I do sumthin fer you, me lawd? He growls, "Send me valet!" Valet enters L. U. E. before maid exits and, brushing past her, gives "me lawd" the "high sign" salute.

"Me Lord" arises. Looks at "me valet." Goes to a tree that is cast for a buffet; takes down a cigar box, which he terms his treasure chest, and draws forth some clippings. These he impulsively presses into the hand of his valet, saying, "Take them. There is 20,000 pounds. This is your birthday."

Valet bows. Exit valet. "Me Lord" strides off growling. "He has a birthday." Curtain.

This is the strongest act. There were thirty-four in the audience who good-naturedly sat through the whole thing which was not over thirty-five minutes in producing.

The authors declare that the greater part of her company failed to come from New York and only a small chunk of the real unabridged drama was handed out last night.

DINNER TO BURTON IN SPITE OF ALL

Philadelphians Don't Hate Him for Refusing River Appropriation.

In honor of Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, chairman of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, J. Hampton Moore, Representative from Philadelphia, gave a dinner last night at the Raleigh with the Rivers and Harbors Committee, the Gridiron Club of Washington, and the Five o'Clock Club of Philadelphia as the guests.

The dinner was in the nature of a love feast, in which Philadelphians showed Mr. Burton that they did not hate him for denying certain appropriations for Philadelphia in the river and harbor bill.

The speakers were Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, Speaker Cannon, General Grosvenor, Representative Kiefer, Representative Burton, Representative Nicholas Longworth, Representative Champ Clark, Rudolph Blakenburg, president of the Five o'Clock Club, and John E. Reayburn, mayor-elect of Philadelphia.

MISS MARY LECKERT DIES, AGED SEVENTEEN YEARS

Miss Mary Leckert, aged seventeen years, the eldest child of Theodore and Annie Leckert, died last night at the family residence, 1216 Florida avenue northeast, from convulsions superinduced by illness of typhoid fever.

The funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock from Holy Name of Jesus Church, where requiem mass will be celebrated by the rector, assisted by the Rev. Father Angell, and the Rev. Father J. J. Carey, assistant rector. The interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

DECIDE FERTILIZER CASES AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

The United States Supreme Court decided adversely yesterday to the Government in the fertilizer trust cases. Chief Justice Fuller, in his opinion, said that in removal cases, the indictment of a person was not sufficient to secure his transfer from one jurisdiction to another. Twenty-five indictments were found in these cases, but only eleven of them have been brought up to the United States Supreme Court.

GIRL AIDS LOVER IN BOLD ROBBERY

She Rifles Cash Register While Man Covers Victim With Revolver.

ELKHART, Ind., March 5.—Miss Hazel Eddy, aged nineteen, is under arrest here for participation in one of the boldest hold-ups ever perpetrated in this city. Early last evening Emory LaBell entered his meat market and was met by a man, who presented a revolver and ordered him to stand still. A girl stepped behind the counter, opened the cash register, and took the contents. Then the pair backed out of the market and escaped.

Miss Eddy was arrested an hour later. Her lover, Thomas Dixon, whom LaBell recognized, escaped.

Why March is the Most Dangerous Month.

March is the most dangerous month of the year because the change of season is more than a good many systems can stand. Too often it is true that the sick "last only till spring." But if the system is fortified, if the impurities are driven from the blood, and the nervous tissues fed with wholesome and strength-giving food medicine, there is no danger in the change of seasons. Father John's Medicine is invaluable as a tonic in the spring. It strengthens the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter—builds up the body. It is this power that has made it so successful in curing colds and all throat and lung troubles. No weakening stimulants, morphine, or other dangerous drugs.

HELPED T-E BABY.

Father John's Medicine is doing my baby a world of good. She was very thin and had bronchial trouble. She is picking up nicely. I have also recommended it to my neighbors. (Signed) Mrs. Kelleher, 33 First Ave., New York City.
